

ICAR-NBFGR, Lucknow organized Training for Schedule Cast Farmers of different district of U.P. on Fish Culture & Conservation during 13-14 December, 2022

A short term training on Fish Culture a& Conservation has been successfully organized by ICAR-National Bureau of Fish Genetic Resources, Lucknow at its Aquaculture Research and Training Unit, Chinhhat, Lucknow during 13-14 December, 2022. During course of training programme pedagogical and androgological tools were applied in the farmer-scientist physical interaction mode. Dr. U.K. Sarkar, Director ICAR-NBFGR, Lucknow distributed certificate and in his concluding remark he motivated the trainees to come forward for upliftment of their livelihood after getting training (Fig. 1). He assured that institute will be always with the weaker section farmer for their benefit including technical support. Dr. S. K. Singh, Principal Scientist & convener of the programme outline module of training programme where different aspects of fish culture and conservation sensitized. Thirty (30) Schedule Cast farmers participated in the programme from different district (Lucknow, Raebareli, Barabanki, Ayodhya, Gonda etc.) of Uttar Pradesh. Participants got their participation certificate from Director ICAR-NBFGR, Lucknow (Fig. 2). Programme concluded after vote of thanks presented by Dr. Raghvendra Singh, Scientist.

Fig. 1

Fig. 2